

WHAT TO EXPECT

Welcome to The BLUEBARN Theater. Below is information intended to make your BLUEBARN experience as comfortable as possible. If you have additional questions, please feel free to ask the box office volunteers.

You may request a sensory kit and/or audio enhancement devices at the box office.

Bathrooms are down the hallway from the box office window.

The theater will open 45-minutes before the show. The lobby can get lively before the theater opens. If you need a less lively space, the hallway nearest the box office features dimmer lighting and lower sound levels.

You will enter the theater from a medium-lit hallway across the lobby from the box office. The theater is proscenium style. There are 96 seats. You may sit anywhere that is not taped off for our season members.

If you need a break during the show, a live feed of the show will be projected on a screen located above the box office.

EXPERIENTIAL CONTENT ADVISORY

CONTENT BELOW MAY CONTAIN SHOW SPOILERS

Every Christmas Story Ever Told (And Then Some!) contains fog, flashing and strobe lights, and loud sound effects.

BLUEBARN recognizes the importance of the mental and emotional well-being of all our audience members and is committed to sharing information about topics and/or sensory experiences which people may find distressing in advance of attending our productions or events. Statement shared from Playwrights Horizons.

Every Christmas Story Ever Told (And Then Some) contains some mature content and themes. If you have any questions about age appropriateness, production elements, or access needs please contact the box office at 402-345-1576 or email njansen@bluebarn.org.
